Dear Covenant Partners,

God already has and will be calling us to things that are new, unknown, and therefore outside our comfort zone. Some of what He is calling us to causes our hearts to mourn because of what has died, or what we must give up for greater purpose. God is also calling us back to faithfulness in the important things we have neglected due to sin, and the stress and challenges of this current season. These neglected things serve as the foundation on which the new things will rest. Consequently, it is dangerous to allow weariness and distractions to hinder us from our commitment to foundational things.

Additionally, Satan wants to use our fear and pain concerning all of this. He wants us to cater to our flesh and dwell on our emotions so that we will put off the inevitable. Having said that, just the ambiguity of doing the unknown, may prompt some to make “wrong” moves. However, we must remember that our walk is one of faith. God has not called us to wait until we have all the answers to move, but to seek Him and trust that He will speak to us and bring course corrections as we move.

So, as we pray, let us be honest about the places where fear and other emotions are getting the best of us. Let’s also not be dishonest about lapses in judgement and in our commitments. Let us recommit to the disciplines necessary to sustain the journey ahead. Then ask God to reveal His will and respond with faith filled actions as He speaks.

We will utilize the familiar ACTS method of prayer. As we fast, abstain from entertainment and other pleasures, and devote ourselves to prayer and reflection these 3 ½ days, may the Lord reveal and do remarkable things, to the glory of his name. Amen! – Pastor Michael
